A flashlight application for Windows Phone 7. This is not a backup application, just a flashlight with improved UI. Features: Generates a flash LED to improve the visibility of the device. Allows various types of controls as often used in smartphones such as volume adjust, brightness, end turn on, buttons off, etc. Use same functionality as Light Control in the windows app. Converts any quick turn on into a flashlight function, ideal for those who have razor blade. Highlighted features: Added immediate action for direct switch on/off or adjust brightness to avoid accidental button presses, easy to select options. Determines whether the phone is on and if that's the case, it will turn on automatically and update the status of the LED. User friendly app as usual. Made for low end Android devices. Is currently compatible with Android 2.2 (Froyo) and android 2.3 (Gingerbread) only. Gear™ Standby Guard is a handy application for Android™ 2.2 (Froyo) devices. When your phone is locked the application will keep your Bluetooth Headset active to listen to your phone calls. When the phone is unlocked Gear Standby Guard will switch the Bluetooth Headset on and off. You can stop the application from turning the Bluetooth Headset on and off when you are in an active call. This application will keep your Bluetooth headset active when the device is unlocked. Bluetooth is a standard for wirelessly connecting a variety of devices. Bluetooth Headset lets your wireless Bluetooth headset stay active when your phone is locked. Bluetooth is standardized and supported by many devices such as cellular phones, computers, personal data assistants, audio devices, etc. The standard has been enhanced to allow devices to communicate with each other wirelessly, even when the two devices are not in close proximity to each other. FlexStop® Fixit is an Android solution for accidentally calling someone else when you want to call yourself. Wave Frag Voice Command Center Crack Torrent PC/Windows

Wave Frag Voice Command Center is a useful tool for the users who want to control their computer by using their voice. The program allows you to record certain voice messages and to associate them with commands. The program uses a voice recognition technology which decomposes the speech elements. This approach provides microphone independence and is suitable for short phrases such as launching an application. Main Features: - Supports multiple languages: it is equipped with a built-in voice recognition engine which translates speech from English, Spanish and Portuguese. It also includes a Live Translator feature, which allows users to speak in English or in any other language by using their native language as a "carriage language" and the program automatically translates their speech into the desired language. - Voice Command Recording: you can record and edit voice messages; associate each of them with a button or command. The recorded voice messages can be played automatically and the program automatically sends the e-mails when the program is launched or when a voice command is received; the ability to start the program from the command also allows users to control the program by voice. - File Manager: when the program detects a command it saves the current position of the cursor in the last opened window. Besides, it allows users to record the activities of the program; each recorded segment is tagged with a time code and it can be played by double-clicking on them, or even by voice command, and it will create a new file. - Quick Start Menu: the program is extremely fast and easy to use; as a result, it is ideal for new users. It is designed to easily create new commands and to associate each of them with a button or action. This feature helps users to quickly and easily create custom commands which are accessible directly from the program's interface. - Program Settings: you can configure the program to launch automatically when it is started or to be always active. You can also set the speech recognition engine to automatically load the recorded audio files when the program is started; the input speech is analyzed and any commands associated with the current window are executed. - Program Preferences: the settings created in the program are saved and applied automatically when the program is launched or when you restart the computer; in addition, it is also possible to configure the command behavior to launch a specific file or a specific executable. - Auto Updater: the program automatically checks for updates and performs the installation of any of them when the program is launched; this feature helps users to make sure that they are always informed
